Score: 88

"The Pedroncelli Dry Creek Valley Mother Clone 2008 offers that winery's usual elegance and style"

Ripe and jammy, but nicely structured, showing ripe cherry, licorice and roasted herb flavors. Drink now through 2015.

"This 2008 is a steal at $15.00 (srp), a peppery, electric Zin with pine forest scents and cool, saturated fruit sweetness. The tannins remain firm until the finish, where they turn chocolatey. Decant it for flank steak off the grill."

5% Petite Sirah. It may not be much for refinement, and it could even be called a bit unruly, but this rough-cut Zin counts good fruit as an asset and makes up in richness for what it might lack in manners. It shows classic varietal themes of ripe berries and briar, and its fundamental fruit hangs on convincingly even as its grippy tannins and a bit of heat come on at the end. GOOD VALUE
